J U D G M E N T

This is a miscellaneous appeal U/O.43 Rule 1(r) of the Civil Procedure Code, 1908, which has been preferred by the appellant against the final order dated 27.06.2012 passed in I.A. No.1119 of 2011 U/O.39 Rule 1 & 2 of the C.P.C. ( arising out of C.S. No. 1903 of 2011) by the learned Civil Judge, Senior Division, Bhubaneswar, wherein the I.A vide No.1119 of 2011 was dismissed on contest.

The appellant and respondents were the petitioner and O.Ps respectively before the learned Court below in I.A. No.1119 of 2011 ( arising out of C.S. No.1903 of 2011).

2. The factual backgrounds of this appeal, which prompted the appellant for preferring of the same was that, he ( appellant) being the plaintiff had filed the original suit before the learned Court below vide C.S. No. 1903/2011 praying for declaration of his right, title, interest and possession over the suit land under Khata No.466, Plot No.1310 for an area Ac.0.300 decimals in mouza Jagannath Prasad under Chandaka Police Station on the basis of adverse possession and had also prayed for injuncting them ( defendants) permanently from interfering into his possession over the suit land, as he ( plaintiff) is staying on the suit land by constructing his house thereon since the time of his predecessors.

He (plaintiff) had also filed I.A. No.1119 of 2011 in the said suit under Order 39 Rule 1 & 2 of the C.P.C. against the defendants praying for restraining them temporarily during the pendency of the suit from creating any interference/disturbance on his peaceful possession over the suit land.

3. Having been noticed from the Court, the defendants i.e State and Tahasildar had contested the I.A. of the petitioner by stating that, the suit Plot No.1310 comprises a big area i.e. Ac. 54.300 decimals and the same has been recorded in the name of the State of Orissa in the Hal R.O.R with Kissam as jungle. But, the petitioner is a stranger to the suit land and he has no manner of right, title, interest and possession over the same. For which, his application for temporary injunction is liable to be dismissed with costs.

4. After conclusion of hearing and on perusal of the materials available in the record, the learned court below dismissed to the prayer for interim injunction of the petitioner vide his Final Order dtd.27.06.2012 by assigning reason that, there is no scrap of paper or other material to show the possession of the petitioner over the same.

5. On being aggrieved with the above order of dismissal to the I.A. No.1119 of 2011 passed on dtd.27.06.2012 by the learned Civil Judge (Sr.Divn)., Bhubaneswar against the petitioner, he (petitioner) has challenged the same by preferring this appeal after taking several grounds in his appeal memo.

6. I have already heard from the learned counsels of the parties and so also have perused the materials available in the record.

7. Basing upon the pleadings of the parties, grounds taken by the appellant in his appeal memo and the observations made by the learned court below in the impugned judgment, the crux of this appeal is ;

Whether the impugned order dtd.27.06.2012 passed by the learned court below in dismissing the petition U/o.39, Rule-1 & 2 C.P.C of the petitioner/appellant vide I.A. No.1119 of 2011 is sustainable under law ?

8. This is an appeal U/o.43, Rule-1(r) of the C.P.C, 1908 against the rejection of the prayer for temporary injunction U/o.39, Rule-1 & 2 C.P.C.

9. It is the well settled propositions of law that, in an appeal U/o.43, Rule-1 of the C.P.C against the order of refusal of temporary injunction U/o.39, Rule-1 & 2 C.P.C like this appeal at hand, the scope of interference by the appellate court with the impugned order of the learned court below is very very limited. Because, ordinarily the appellate court U/o.43, Rule-1 of the C.P.C shall not interfere with the discretionary power exercised by the learned court below in refusing the prayer for temporary injunction, unless the said impugned order is unreasonable, arbitrary, perverse and capricious.

The above propositions of law finds support from the following decisions :-

2005(4) Civil Law Times (Bombay)- Page-136- Desh Mukh (vrs) Abhinav.

Order-43, Rule-1- appeal against order U/o.39, Rule-1 & 2- the appellate court will not interfere with the exercise of discretionary power of the court of first instance and substitute its own discretion except where the discretion has been shown to have been exercised arbitrarily or capriciously or perversely or where the court had ignored the settled principles of law regulating grant or refusal of interlocutory injunctions.

2009(II) O.L.R-Page-796- Raj Kumar Biswal (vrs) Santilata Biswal and another at Para-10.

Injunction- temporary injunction- order refusing temporary injunction is of a discretionary character--- ordinarily the court of appeal will not interfere with the exercise of discretion by the Trial Court and substitute its own discretion.

2009(IV) Civil Law Times S.C-Page-53 at Para-79- Sonu Babu Bhambit (Vrs) Dream developers

Discretionary jurisdiction- appellate court would be slow to interfere therewith unless sufficient and cogent reasons exists therefore.

10. Here in this case at hand, the learned court below has refused to exercise the discretionary power in favour of the petitioner/appellant in allowing his prayer for temporary injunction in respect of the suit land by assigning reasons that, the suit land has been recorded in the name of the State of Orissa with Kissam as Jungle and the said R.O.R of the suit land in the name of the State of Orissa has remained unquestioned/unchallenged and there is no scrap of paper in favour of the appellant/petitioner to show his possession over the said suit land.

11. The above reasons assigned by the learned court below in rejecting the prayer for temporary injunction of the petitioner/appellant are not unreasonable. For which, it can not at all be said that, the learned court below has exercised his discretionary power in refusing the prayer for temporary injunction of the petitioner arbitrarily. Therefore, in view of the principles of law enunciated in the ratio of the decisions referred to supra, I found no justification to make any interference with the impugned order of the learned court below, when the said order is not found unreasonable. As such, there is no merit in the appeal of the appellant. The same must fail. Hence ordered :-
